Har Misfortune.
A local clubman who loves a joke
on himself was telling a story apropos of temperance before a gathering of the evening. It was about a man who had destroyed a distillery in the little country town where she lived and taught school twenty years ago.

"We thought it was providential,"
he said, "until the next day. Then it appeared that in their effort to save as much of the stock as possible the good people had climbed to the second floor, let down a chute and rolled into the barrel of whisky into the river. The vessel floated away and immediately dispersed. And on the next day the entire community was drunk as a lord."

"Oh, Mrs. Blank," called a voice quivering with laughter, "you lived in that community, didn't you?"

"I did," was the prompt rejoinder,
"but I was the exception. My people were living up stream."—Kansas City dollar. Twenty-five cents was due Legendre, however, and this amount the waiter returned to him by means of a coin. Legendre, who with a number of the waiter, placed the quarter on the tray to "tip" the waiter. The waiter, placing the money in a glass on the table, passed it to Mr. Semmes as a gentle reminder of what was expected of him. Mr. Semmes was, how-

Mr. Hill at the time and in an absent-

the hope that he, at least, had "caught on," and that Mr. Semmes might finally be brought to a knowllieved the waiter. Mr. Hill dealt with the silver money just as Mr. Semmes had done in the first instance. The waiter was dumfounded, but before he could attempt an explanation the party had departed for their train.

Does your back ever ache?
Feel lame, weak—so sore you can hardly

Are you making the common mistake—
Waiting for it to pass away?
To cure the backache, you must cure

Where early crops have been taken

from spaces in the garden and no late

crops for the table are to be planted, prepare the spaces early to sow to row peas,

clover or some legume to occupy and fertilize the soil. This cover crop may be plowed under in the fall or following spring to advantage.

The longer we farm, says an experienced contemporary, the more thoroughly satisfied do we become that it pays to keep stock growing steadily all the time, just the same as a crop, and that any failure to do this is a failure to secure as much profit as we could.

Feed the moulting hens well. Do not cut down on the feed because the egg yield is falling off. The hens, if they have been properly cared for, have done

their share and now that they are going

in the moult should receive the same care and attention as when in full lay.

In furnishing eggs to private trade, be careful and honest to give honest value

in cleanliness and freshness of product.

Customers soon learn to know the quality of your goods, and if you can always supply the best, you are sure of securing the best prices. Doubtful dealers in eggs

soon go begging for trade.

Meadows that have been used for hay

this summer but which will be plowed up

this fall or next spring for some other

crop, make the best kind of clean pasture

for late summer and fall. If all spare fields are used for pasture in late summer

when the regular pasture will have time

for a good late summer and early fall

growth for good late pasture.

Cow peas and corn mixed make a rich and valuable silage feed. The peas are relatively rich in protein and the corn

correspondingly rich in carbohydrates;

hence, the mixture makes a reasonably

rich balanced ration, which at the same time is succulent, bulky and easily digested. The mixture is especially good for feeding producing cows and beef animals

for fattening.

The dairyman who expects his cows to give liberal flows of milk for long periods

must be provided to furnish his cows

with nutritious supplementary feeds when pastures are short. Wheat, bran, shorts, cotton-seed meal and ground corn are some of the good supplementary feeds.

Corn silage in the silo should be on hand,

not only for winter feeding, but for times

in summer and fall, when pastures are short.

Farmers have always been men of high

personal character, but in former years

Give the young chicks a chance at the insects in the orchard and garden.

Do not be afraid to thin out fruit or plants. The same rule will apply to root crops.

The cow's bowels can be kept regular and the cost improved by feeding a small amount of oil cake or ground linseed

once or twice a week.

Have an old broom in the stable to clean the thickest mud from the horses'

legs. Then rub the rest off with a coarse cloth or a handful of clean straw.

Mow the lawns about the garden and house frequently, now. The short clip-

mulch for the grass roots and to preserve moisture.

Whatever animals you keep, aim to feed for rapid early growth, as the young animal makes the most economical gain

from its feed.

Keep up a good strong flow during the hot weeks of summer by using fly repel-lents and feeding soiling crops when pasture grass is dry and short. It is easier to keep up the flow than to bring it back again.

Cleanliness is a work which the poultry man must bear in mind. Wash out and disinfect poultry houses, coops

and brooders frequently during the hot months. Cheap disinfectants will save the lives of many birds.

In driving cows, do not move them faster than a comfortable walk. A dairy cow that is compelled to walk a long way to pasture, or to travel far in the pasture

for her feed, uses up energy that will decrease the milk flow.

from spaces in the garden and no late

crops for the table are to be planted, pre-

pare the spaces early to sow to row peas,

clover or some legume to occupy and fer-

tilize the soil. This cover crop may be

This Column Alone Cost Us More Than $200. a Year. You Can Have it a Year for $2.00 and the Rest of the Paper for Nothing.

The Brockton Times says: "The happiest man just now is the one who gathers his dinner out of his own garden."

Turnip seed may be sown where early peas have been taken off.

As a fall feed for cows, pumpkins are not sufficiently appreciated, and they are perhaps more cheaply grown than vegetables.

Early in the month of August, make a sowing of beets. Use an early kind and they will be ready to eat in the fall, when young, tender beets are a delicacy.

Good cultivation during the summer will cause fruit trees, bushes and vines to grow new wood and form new buds for next season's fruit crop. Cultivation should cease at the end of summer so the wood will have time to develop and harden before freezing weather.

Celery does better by being transplanted three times. Cutting off the ends of the roots causes them to spread and the plants to grow stockier. The crop requires a great amount of soil moisture. Water artificially when possible and keep the surface soil fine and even for holding moisture.

The careful feeder watches little things. No man can be a good feeder who is not a close observer and quick to note the condition of every animal in his charge. The chief thing is to suit the ration to the animal. Feeding is so much of an art that not one man in ten knows how to feed most successfully.

The farmer who can not or does not grow clover or any of the legumes, which contain a relatively large percentage of protein, should purchase bran, shorts, oil meal, cotton seed meal or tankage to supply the necessary protein to be used as a supplement to the hay, corn and other feeds deficient in protein.

A few dollars each year invested in disinfectants to use about the buildings, sheds, lots, and pens of animals is good insurance against disease. Often a dollar invested this way will save $20 or $100 in animal losses. Lime, carbolic acid, kerosene and a number of crude oil products are now for sale everywhere. They are cheap and safe to use.

Many horses have the habit of sleeping standing up. It is a very injurious habit, and the horse should be broken of it if possible. The narrow stable in which horses are often placed, makes a recumbent position very difficult. It is cruelty to the animal to place him in such a stall after doing a hard day's work.

A writer recommends not to build too deep a silo, as he found that the silage in the lower part of the silo is always more acid (sour). This is certainly not one to the depth of the silo, but to the condition of corn at the time of filling. When we start filling, the corn in most cases is still rather green, and if we fill rapidly the silage has no chance to heat up sufficiently, and the result is sour silage.

Newly planted trees require careful attention through the summer, and especially in dry weather. Mulching, by which is meant the spreading of coarse manure, half rotted straw, or any other litter on the ground over the roots of the trees, will be always found of great service in keeping the ground cool and moist and promoting the growth of newly transplanted trees.

Some dry feed should be given all pastured animals during the summer. There is no time, however good the pasture may be, when they will not eat dry feed of some kind. At one time it may be timothy hay, at another time clover hay, and at all times bran, oats or corn. These need not be supplied in large amounts, but a small amount of dry matter with green pasture grass will be relished by the animals and will tend to make their flesh firmer and their growth or producing power in every way better.

The main reason that the feeding of new corn pays is that all of the plant will be eaten by horses, cows and hogs and that all is saved and nothing is wasted, which is not the case with mature corn and corn fodder later in the year. When corn is cut green at, or soon after the roasting ear stage, the animals will eat absolutely all of the plant, which means they are deriving far more benefit from it

The Oakland
The Car with a Conscience

MODEL "30" 5-PASSENGER TOURING CAR, $1,250
The Car you have waited for
This car is built to answer the large demand for a medium priced car, having sufficient power to take a party of five anywhere. It has every good point claimed for the higher-priced cars. It is finished with the same care and attention given to all Oakland models. The upholstery is comfortable. The trimmings are of the very best material, and the body is finished with the same number of coats of paint. This model has been much admired, and its thorough examination by prospective purchasers will convincingly prove that we have not exaggerated this car by a single statement.
The same simplified design in the chassis and mechanical construction, which places the highest priced models in a distinctive class, is found in "30." In short, it is an ideal, five-passenger car of medium horsepower rating, and capable of doing the work of costlier models.

ON THE FARM
This Column Alone Cost Us More Than $200. A Year. You Can Have it a Year for $2.00 and the Rest of the Paper for Nothing.
Clean up the old strawberry bed if it is to be used again, otherwise it should be plowed under.
In making poultry pay much depends upon your ability, your experience and your aptitude in "the work."
If the soil leaves the plowshare shiny and wet, wait a day or two. Wet plowing makes a cloddy ground.
To make horses inattentive to properly voiced orders, the best way is to yell at them in the most emphatic language at your command.
A tablespoonful of baking soda placed in the drinking water two or three times a week will prevent bowel trouble in the chickens.
If any fruits or vegetables are marketed see that they are put up in clean, neat and well-graded packages. They will sell quicker and at a better price.
Poultry "systems" requiring close confinement of the flock and a large amount of personal attention, are out of place on a general farm.
If you intend to plant a few choice trees next spring, dig large holes for them this fall, fill them with manure, removing it next spring and filling in up to the desired depth for the tree.
The drinking water that you give to your chickens should be in the shade, for when it is exposed for a long while to the hot glare of the sun, it becomes unhealthful for them to drink.
Small fruits of all kinds respond readily to good cultivation. Keep out all weeds and the soil well stirred around all vines and bushes during the growing season so that strong growth and bud development will take place.
Young grapevines, berry bushes and small fruits of all kinds should be kept clean and cultivated all through the growing season so that a strong, root system and fruiting buds will have a chance to develop. Cultivation this year is repaid with fruit next year.
It is a mistake to try to grow grapes and berries of any kind without cultivating them well. So many imagine that all they have to do is to set out a patch of small fruit and let it grow up without attention. Here is where the failures are made, and this is one reason why so many claim there is no money in small fruits.
Current and gooseberry bushes are frequently neglected during the summer months. Keep the weeds down and the soil stirred. These small fruits like a rich and moist soil, and they will not thrive struggling with weeds and dry soil. Mulching in dry weather will promote growth and development of fruiting branches. For worms on the leaves spray with Paris green solution.
Good cows are an essential to profitable dairying. Yet good cows alone will not produce desired results. Good feeding is as great a factor as good breeding. The cow to produce milk must have materials out of which milk can be manufactured. If the cows could stand for all the seasons "knee deep in June grass and clover" they would need little other feed for large milk yields. But such feed conditions do not last all the year.
To preserve sound shoulders with horses and mules, good collars must be used. The collar must fit the shoulders snugly, neither tight nor loose about the neck. It must not work too far back on the shoulder. The cheap collar is used at any price. One can not afford to sacrifice the shoulders of a good work animal for the difference in price between a good and poor collar. An old collar with a part of the filling coming out or lumpy, must never be used. The place for it is the compost heap.
Dead vines at digging time are not a reliable index to the vitality of a hill of potatoes, so the only safe, sure way of obtaining the choicest seed is to mark the vigorous plants while they are green. Just before digging the entire crop, I always take a spade or a potato fork and carefully dig these seed hills. Then I allow the tubers to green in the sun for a few days and then store them in crates until planting time next spring.—Denver Field and Farm.

The conditions for hay and forage this year seem so far much better than last year. Already a good hay crop has been harvested over wide sections of the country. Late supplementary crops are doing well, and corn in general is promising very well. With a good corn crop and good supplementary late hay and forage crops, the prospects are for plenty of hay and fodder this fall. Yet it must be remembered that the country is growing bigger each year with more and larger demands for feed and foods. The wise farmer will not allow a single ton of hay or fodder to waste in the field. All will be harvested and stored for home feeding or for sale. Hay may not be as high priced as it was last spring, yet hay will be hay from now on every year. It is worth money, directly and indirectly.

Shoe Industry.
Talk of higher prices in the boot and shoe market is not surprising when a wholesale house can state that its summer business has been 30 per cent larger than that of last year. When it is remembered that the sources of material are more restricted, the increased demand for finished goods naturally means higher prices.
It has been a good summer for business after all, and now the end of the season is at hand, and all energies are being bent toward the fall trade, and early deliveries are being made. Orders have been satisfactory and a larger business than a year ago seems to be in sight. The movement of school shoes has begun, and there are signs which seem to indicate the probable trend of business.
For example, the call for velvet boots for women is being heard again, and white buck goods are being given attention. The tendency toward cloth-topped boots is becoming stronger, and the high cost of leather is a moving factor in this.
It is stated on good authority that the comparative costs of cloth-topped boots and all-leather ones puts the cloth-topped ahead as the cheaper by at least ten cents a pair. That is a small item, but it indicates greater possibilities, for so far the cloth-topped boot has been for women's wear, as the materials used have been feminine in character. If a fabric can be designed which will be appropriate to a man's boot and a tasteful boot can be created at a less cost than the all-leather, it may be expected that it will find buyers.
So far the use of fabrics has been principally confined to the tops of boots, and not much to vamps except in velvet boots. In order to produce a complete substitute for the leather boot, a fabric must be devised which will be durable in the vamp as well as the top and withstand the wear and tear of a man's foot. If this can be accomplished it will be a decided advance toward the practical solution of the problem of the high cost of living.
In view of the conditions affecting hides and leather the future of the good shoe is in danger. Either it must be sold at a high price or because it is a good shoe, or it must be cheapened in construction and sold at a lower price, ceasing to be a good shoe.
How to meet this situation is the problem. The general opinion has favored the good shoe even at a high price, and year after year, as the situation has been studying how to keep the shoe good. At the same time they have had calls for less expensive and consequently less durable shoes, and they have tried to make them as good as their value. Now the problem will be what to leave out of the shoe to keep it cheap, and at the same time substitute something for the part taken out, for there is nothing wasted in building a shoe these days. A new field of invention is opening to anyone of ideas who can design a shoe that is durable and yet be made with a minimum of leather. Leather is so valuable for shoes; it is so much needed in automobile upholstery and suit cases.

MR. HOMEMAKER,
OLD COLONY DISTRICT, MASS.
Dear Sir:—
This is Old Home Week in Weymouth and a good time to make the Old Home brighter than it ever was before. We would like to call your attention to and have you become more acquainted with gas for illuminating purposes. There is nothing that helps to make the home so bright and cheerful as a pleasing, mellow light in every room of the house, particularly the library and living room where your family spends the greater number of their winter evenings, either reading or studying. We are convinced that we have both lights and fixtures that will please you, and we would be glad to have you call at any of our offices to make a few selections, or, if you cannot make it convenient to call, let us know and we will have a representative come to see you.
Yours very truly,

FRIDAY, AUG. 23, 1912.

The Gazette and Transcript is printed and mailed Friday afternoons, and is for sale at all newsstands in the Weymouth and at the South Terminal, Boston.

All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be returned by mail unless stamps are enclosed. Notices of all local entertainments to which admission fee is charged must be paid for in the regular matter, 10 cents per line in the reading matter, or regular rates in the advertising columns.

This week the assessors give the definite figures of the tax rate which are $17.25 on the $1,000 which is the lowest it has been for many years and when compared with much lower figures of twenty years ago, it is not as high, because at that time the citizen paid personally for many things which are now paid by the town and are of course included in the tax rate.

There are movements all along the line politically of which we would like to say a word, but are limited for time and space. Will, however, say that the band hall, so-called, in the building occupied by the Ford Furniture Company, East Weymouth, has been leased as headquarters for a Wilson club, and one of the leaders, James L. Lincoln, has taken out nomination papers for Representative.

TOWN BUSINESS.

The work of refurbishing the interior of the vaults used by the town at the Savings Bank Building with steel drawers shelves etc., as ordered by the state authorities, is now completed and looks nice; but it is still an open question as to how much safer the books and papers are than they were before. The vaults were as near absolutely fire and burglar proof as it was possible to make them and even now any combustion which would have destroyed the wood work inside the vaults would make books and papers of but little value.

The selectmen made a formal recognition of Old Home Week on Monday by voting to instruct the police officers to allow no peddlers or hawkers to do business on the public streets during that week. They also voted to decorate the building where the town officers are located for that week and granted a request of the Old Colony Gas Co. to put on lights in Washington square for illumination during the week.

Other business of the day was the approval of the bond for $25,000, filed by Winslow M. Tirrell as tax collector. A hearing will be given on Sept. 3 to the petition of the New England Tel. & Tel. Co. for permit to erect eight poles on Church street and six poles on Congress street.

An option will be taken on three acres of land belonging to Miss Margaret Terry on North street, the gravel and stone to be used by the road department for construction and repair of streets.

A permit was granted Bertie T. Holbrook to use the public sidewalk in the vicinity of Old Field. Building at South Weymouth for 30 days, while making improvements on the building.

The selectmen voted to accept an invitation received from Branch 34 of the National Letter Carrier Association to attend their outing and celebration to be held on Labor Day.

Letter Carriers' Field Day.
On Monday, September 24 (Labor Day) the first grand field day given under the auspices of Branch 34, National Association of Letter Carriers, will be held at North Weymouth Landing, North Weymouth. The occasion marks the renewal of old acquaintances and the happy reunion of the carriers, their families and many friends.

The committee in charge has arranged a program to provide fun and entertainment throughout the afternoon and evening. Musical selections will be rendered by the famous Boston Letter Carriers' Band. A large orchestra will play for dancing afternoon and evening.

Invitations have been extended to Postmaster Edward C. Mansfield, Asst. P. M. Frank H. Hayes, U. S. Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and W. Murray Crane, members of congress, Gov. Eugene N. Foss, members of the legislature, Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor Stone, President Hobbs of the Quincy city council, C. C. Heane, president of the Board of Trade, Selectmen of Braintree and Weymouth and men prominent in public, social and business life.

Some of the interesting events: For carriers—100 yard dash, 300 yard dash, potato race, sack race, and relay race. For boys under 16 years, sons of carriers, 100 yard dash. For girls under 16 years, 50 yard dash. For ladies, egg and spoon race and 50 yard dash. Throwing and needle race for carriers and ladies.

The local committee, of which James Reilly, Daniel Looney, Kenneth Brennan and E. B. Nash are members, has arranged for a ball game between Quincy A. and the Norfolk of South Weymouth, and with the intense rivalry which exists there will no doubt cause the local fans to attend in great numbers.

Prove Thyself Friendly.

(Written for the Gazette and Transcript.)

If you are like the rest of us you have,

first and last, wished that you were a

have friends.

From flings do not move toward a lifeless piece of steel, but to a piece with the magnetic current. They lie inert until they feel the presence of the right anti-

It is a very apt expression when we speak of "personal magnetism," that it implies something which draws man to man. But even personal magnetism must not be mistaken for friendliness.

The gentleman friend; the human spider sitting among the web meshes by which he intends to trap as many victims as he can; the political victim, who desires

men's votes only for the spoils an office

will pay him; all these must have personal magnetism to bring about their results.

Not one of them is honestly friendly.

That is the pity of it! The semblance of friendliness is really a mask as easily deceived by it. On the other hand, too,

we need to be very careful that our own motives for friendliness are pure.

If we seek friends only for what they

OLD HOME WEEK

The Boom is On and There Are
Many Good Things Mapped Out
For Next Week.

Owing to the lateness in starting the Old Home Week many things which have occurred to the committee have been found impracticable for lack of time and material, but in the short while the committee has been at work much has been done and the people of Weymouth and others who will be attracted to Weymouth can now look for a week of enjoyment and it is hoped that the sequel will be a permanent benefit to the town.

MONDAY.
East Weymouth is alive for the opening day and in fact every day in the week. On Monday morning bells will be rung and whistles blown at 6 o'clock and every body who has a flag is expected to throw it to the breeze and from "Grass Hill" on the south, to Fox and King Oak hills on the north, from the Hingham line on High street on the east, to Essex street on the west Old Home Week will have dawned. Something will be doing until the shades of night gather and then much more will be doing. Arches of electric light bulbs already span the street in many places and the formal turning out of the lights will be preceded by a short address of welcome by E. W. Hunt, chairman of the selectmen and president of the Board of Trade, welcoming the people in behalf of the town and its Board of Trade.

There will also be a band concert in the evening in Washington square. Like the boys' snowball, from which the carves statues and colossal figures, "Old Home Week" is expected to grow as it rolls along, and Saturday will be the day.

TUESDAY.
There will be an auto parade, starting from Columbus square, South Weymouth, at 1 p. m., making a tour of the principal streets of the town, with the Clapp Memorial field as the objective point, and there, at 3:30, the best blood of the Norfolk and Essex Memorial band teams will be warmed up for a game of ball, which will be contested with each and every player doing his level best to score the most runs by the exercise of skill and nerve.

There will also be a band concert on the grounds during the forenoon, and the grand finale of Weymouth, Old Home Week for 1912 will be a band concert in Jackson square in the evening by the Emerson Shoe Co. band.

We refrain from saying much here in regard to the work which has already been done, and which is still to be done by the Weymouth Light and Power Company. Thus far they have come to the front with the best that is in them to meet the wants of the committee, and their work will be the admiration of every visitor to East Weymouth next week.

WEDNESDAY.
South Weymouth will be somewhat; to the front on Wednesday with the principal events in the evening not the least of which will be a banquet at 8 o'clock in Fogg's opera house. Congressman Robert O. Harris will deliver an address and other speakers of note are expected. Tickets for the banquet may be procured from J. W. Sladen, W. B. Binman, W. M. Tirrell, W. H. Pratt, B. F. Smith, C. D. Harlow, Frank N. Blanchard or C. A. Cook. There will also be a band concert in the square and other features of interest. East Weymouth will also have attractions Wednesday evening not the least of which will be a band concert by the Milo Burke band of Brockton.

THURSDAY.
This will be a somewhat busy day with North Weymouth making some special demonstration. The people there are a hospital people and open doors may be looked for with cordial greeting to people who want to see the prettiest shore front on the New England coast and be entertained in the evening with a fine open air band concert and brilliant illumination. There will also be a stereoscopic lecture at the Town hall on Thursday evening on "Old Homes and Faces," giving the people a chance to gaze into faces long since passed away and view scenes which are now simply a part of the history of Weymouth.

FRIDAY.
Weymouth Landing will be the center of attraction on Friday and in many respects the attractions will exceed the recent successful Fourth of July celebration. It has been planned that the Old Colony Gas Co. will illuminate the Fore River on both sides from the plant to Quincy avenue bridge during the Old Home Week celebration in Weymouth. This is being done for the motorboat parade, but the lights will be lighted every night during the week. The Old Colony Gas Co. is to install four outside five-candle arc lights over the water fountain in Washington square. This will make a very bright spot in Weymouth.

There will also be a band concert in the evening in Washington square. Like the boys' snowball, from which the carves statues and colossal figures, "Old Home Week" is expected to grow as it rolls along, and Saturday will be the day.

SATURDAY.
There will be an auto parade, starting from Columbus square, South Weymouth, at 1 p. m., making a tour of the principal streets of the town, with the Clapp Memorial field as the objective point, and there, at 3:30, the best blood of the Norfolk and Essex Memorial band teams will be warmed up for a game of ball, which will be contested with each and every player doing his level best to score the most runs by the exercise of skill and nerve.

FRIDAY.
East Weymouth is alive for the opening day and in fact every day in the week. On Monday morning bells will be rung and whistles blown at 6 o'clock and every body who has a flag is expected to throw it to the breeze and from "Grass Hill" on the south, to Fox and King Oak hills on the north, from the Hingham line on High street on the east, to Essex street on the west Old Home Week will have dawned. Something will be doing until the shades of night gather and then much more will be doing. Arches of electric light bulbs already span the street in many places and the formal turning out of the lights will be preceded by a short address of welcome by E. W. Hunt, chairman of the selectmen and president of the Board of Trade, welcoming the people in behalf of the town and its Board of Trade.

There will also be a band concert in the evening in Washington square. Like the boys' snowball, from which the carves statues and colossal figures, "Old Home Week" is expected to grow as it rolls along, and Saturday will be the day.

SATURDAY.
There will be an auto parade, starting from Columbus square, South Weymouth, at 1 p. m., making a tour of the principal streets of the town, with the Clapp Memorial field as the objective point, and there, at 3:30, the best blood of the Norfolk and Essex Memorial band teams will be warmed up for a game of ball, which will be contested with each and every player doing his level best to score the most runs by the exercise of skill and nerve.

There will also be a band concert on the grounds during the forenoon, and the grand finale of Weymouth, Old Home Week for 1912 will be a band concert in Jackson square in the evening by the Emerson Shoe Co. band.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Condrick and the C. M. A. won again.

Prospect Union of Cambridge were too much for Norfolk last Saturday at Reed's field.

The fans at the C. M. A. game last Saturday gave Bert Doble a great round of applause when he went to third from first

while Arbie Dan was throwing out Orr

in the first inning. Doble's great slide

after his sprint made it possible for him to reach the bag ahead of the ball.

Harold Alden, the former Thayer and em star, now playing shortstop for the Norfolk, doesn't seem to be putting up such a fine article of ball as he has shown in recent years. Alden's hitting has fallen off a lot this season also. However, when he strikes his bait he will make the best of them shift to keep up with him.

Since being thrown from shortstop to his old position of second base, Doble

O'Dowd has put up a swell game and has picked up wonderfully in his hitting. The Brockton team of a recent date has been following to say of his work—"From only a fair shortstop, Leo O'Dowd has developed into a rattling good infielder, and it is strange he was played at short in the first place, for he certainly was not cut out for the position in organized ball.

He is of a nervous temperament, and often strains of playing the short field told on him, and when he made errors it cut deeply. Since he has been at second he has regained his confidence, both in the field and at the bat, and is whaling the ball for fair. Keep up the good work,

Leo, the fans are all pulling with you."

NORFOLK LOOK 8 TO 5.

Before a large audience the Norfolk

lost to the Prospect Union nine of Cambridge 8-5 on Reed's field, South Weymouth, last Saturday afternoon. Both teams played very freely, the Cambridge aggregation getting fourteen hits off of Hazleton, while Carr allowed the Norfolk boys nine for a total of twelve.

Carr, the visiting third sacker, excelled

in the field, while Ward Humphrey and McMahon, the home short and power hitters, did the honors, carried off the hitting honors. Hazleton had fine

control, not a base on balls being recorded

What do you Expect of Shoes?
"Comfort and long wear" certainly. "Good looks,"
yes, we all do. "And I always pay about the same price and expect to get the best shoes in town at that price."
Isn't that about the way you would answer that question regarding footwear? And its on those four basic points that we have built up our tremendous and ever increasing Shoe business—style, fit, long-wear, value. They have all been embodied in every one of our regular lines.

Reckoning Time.
From the best information we have the calendar came into use 2330 B. C., with a week of seven days and a year
of twelve months, named after zodiacal signs. The year consisted of 360 days, which probably suggested the division of the circle into degrees. Astronomical chronology was divided into cycles of 60 years, 600 years and the star, or Jovian, cycle of 120 years. The oldest of Babylonia, one of the most famous in the annals of chronology, the basis of all the computations of Ptolemy, and the dates in connection with Alexander and Aristotle. Since its epoch, Feb. 28, 747 B. C., it maintained its ground till the commencement of the vulgar era.—Ex-

True Art.
"Critics had praised me, academies
had granted me exhibition space," said
the artist; "with I was modest enough to think that I wasn't any great shakes as a painter. The thing that finally convinced me that maybe I was no dud,
after all, was the remark of a woman who knew a good deal more about bargains counter than she knew about art.
She studied a picture that had made critics overwork their vocabulary in praising it, and her only comment was:
"My! I'll bet the cloth in that woman's tea gown cost every cent of $2.50
I looked up my model and found that the dress she wore had cost just that a yard. Then I knew that I had been gifted with the divine fire. To depict values so faithfully that experienced shoppers can tell the cost of the cloth
up a pretty lively gait."—New York

The Coming of Fall.

(Written for the Gazette and Transcript.)

Do you ever meet people who hate to see the goldenrod come into bloom?

"Don't show it to me," they exclaim when you call attention to its glory by roadside and riverbank.

"It means that Fall is coming. I hate to see it."

These same people rejoice to see the apples and tomatoes turning red, they would be greatly disappointed if their gardens did not bring forth fruit, yet these are quite as truly the signs of approaching Autumn as is the unwelcome goldenrod.

How much happier is he who takes things as they come. Summer is pleasant, of course, but has not Fall its charms? What of the clear, crisp days that fill one with a wild desire to accomplish great things and with the energy to fill that desire?

What of the inevitable return to and settling into the accustomed duties, which, after all, are the things we should miss most if our lot were changed. Isn't there a pleasure in those that could not be matched by any summer outing, however enjoyable?

We don't any of us want the summer to last always, not if we have had a taste of changing seasons. It may answer for natives of the tropics, but not for us.

Half the fun of a trip is to get home and tell about it. The chief reason for taking a vacation is that we may realize how good it is to work.

The attitude of some people toward goldenrod because of what it foretells is like their attitude toward their first gray hair.

How carefully they search for the silvery omens of advancing years and how reluctantly they pull them out, as if their removal could in any wise retard the onward march of the years.

A sweet old face softened by gray hairs is much more in keeping with our ideals than the same face in a frame of dark hair. So there might be an Autumn without its blaze of goldenrod, but it would not be a very satisfactory one.

Perhaps the sensation of dreading to see the signs of Autumn is similar to the feeling a mother has when she realizes that her children are growing up. She protests that she wants to keep them young because she has not yet tasted the joy and wonder of having grown-up sons and daughters.

Like many another wish, if she could have her desire granted, if her children should remain children, it would be her heaviest cross.

It is the law of life that all things change; nothing is quite the same today that it was yesterday. The seasons must succeed one another, and each in turn has a blessing on our world bestow.

Attune your mind to rejoice in every season, to be glad of Autumn as well as of Summer, and to welcome its coming.

To be glad of old age is perhaps a harder lesson to learn, but there are people who seem to have learned it. They have accepted the various changes of life gracefully; they have looked eagerly forward to receive whatever of good each period of life could give.

ANSWERS THE CALL.

Weymouth People Have Found That This Is True.

A cold, a strain, a sudden wrench, a little cause may hurt the kidneys. Or some irregularity of the urine. A splendid remedy for such attacks, a medicine that has cured thousands is Doan's Kidney Pills.

Thousands of people rely upon it. Here is one case:

Charles J. Somers, barber, 17 Newcomb St., Quincy, Mass., says: "It is a pleasant surprise to tell of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills, for the benefit of other kidney sufferers. This remedy worked wonders in my case. Lame back and weak kidneys bothered me for ten years and nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. The promptness with which this remedy cured me was astonishing. My strength and energy was restored and my health improved one hundred percent. I shall always endorse Doan's Kidney Pills when I have the opportunity." (Statement given September 2, 1908.)

A LATER ENDORSEMENT.

On August 9, 1911, Mr. Somers was interviewed and he said: "I am only too pleased to verify my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. I still take this remedy occasionally and it keeps me in good health."

SUCCESSFUL FIELD DAY.

Musters, Hose and Ladder Contests and Athletic Sports at Weymouth.

With a fireman's muster, hose laying and ladder raising contests, and baseball games and several athletic events, the field day of the fireman of Ward 3 proved a huge success at Garfield Park last Saturday afternoon.

The committee in charge of the affair was: Wallace H. Bicknell, Russell B. Worster, Charles W. Baker and Dennis McCarthy, assisted by the members of Hook and Ladder 3 and Hose 3.

Two ball games were played, the first game resulting in a victory for the Outlaws over the Giants of South Weymouth 3 to 0.

The second game was won by the Outlaws 3 to 1 in an exciting contest. The batteries in this game were L. Condrick and Gunville for the winners and Lyons and O'Brien for the losers.

In the athletic events, the three mile race for boys was won by Ralph Talbot; second, Kilsworth Orr; third, A. Kosvete. The time of the winner was 17 minutes, 11.5 seconds.

The 100 yard dash was won by John Lyat; Harry McNeil finished second and Kilsworth Orr ran third. The winner's time was 11.2 seconds.

The play-out of the hand tabs was marred somewhat by a cross wind which made high scores impossible. The prizes were first, $30; second, $15; third, $10; fourth, $5; fifth, $5 and sixth, $5. The result was as follows:

Hingham Vets, Hingham, 167 ft. 2 1/2 in. Junior, East Weymouth, 164 ft. 3 1/2 in. Active, Weymouth, 163 ft. 2 1/2 in. Conqueror, South Weymouth 160 ft. 2 in. Union, Braintree, 156 ft. 3 in. Cochato, Braintree, 152 ft. 9 in.

In the hose coupling contest, the prizes were first, $5; for second $3 and third, $2. The result of this contest was as follows:

Hose 2, North Abington, 1 m. 19 s. Hose 4, South Weymouth, 1 m. 24 s. Hose 3, Weymouth Landing, 1 m. 26 s. Hose 3, East Braintree, 1 m. 26 s. Hose 2, Weymouth, 1 m. 37 s. Hose 5, Weymouth, 1 m. 28 s. Hose 1, Abington, 1 m. 50 s. Hose 3, Hingham, 1 m. 55 s. Hose 2, East Weymouth, 1 m. 57 s.

In the test of ladder raising the same amount in prizes were given as in the hose coupling contest. The record of the race in ladder raising follows:

Truck 3, East Braintree, 254 seconds. Truck 3, East Weymouth, 274 seconds. Truck 3, North Abington, 277 seconds. Truck 4, Weymouth, 294 seconds.

The prizes in the athletic events were three in number. First and second prizes were watches and the third prize was a Jack knife. The winners of the ball game, the Mt. Pleasant, received $10 as prize money for defeating the Outlaws who had previously defeated the Giants of South Weymouth.

The committee report a most successful day and about $50 was realized on the affair.

A Painter.

Is apt to think that his interest lies with lead-and-oil paint.

No; it lies with a better paint than that. It lies with a paint that costs no more and outlasts lead-and-oil two to one.

"Lead-and-oil is good for 3 years. A common saying. No, good lead-and-oil is good for 3 years.

A good job of Devore is as good for 6 years.

What? Does a painter's interest lie with a paint that cuts his business in half?

Yes; for it doubles it too. If one painter's paint lasts twice as long as another's, he gets the business in that town?

DEVORE

Everett Lord, E. Weymouth; M. R. Lord & Co., S. Weymouth; A. J. Sidelinger, N. Weymouth; sell it.

Solid Gold.

For many years the term "solid gold" has been a commercial misnomer. Some of the ancient Roman jewelry as well as that of the renaissance period was indeed made of pure gold.

worked up by hand with the crudest of tools, but since the old day there has been a constantly increasing employment of alloys, for the reason that jewelers found that the harder the gold was rendered by good alloys the greater its wearing qualities and the more secure, therefore, was the setting of the gems it contained—Argon.

The Hard Part First.

"I hear you've got a government job now," one man said to another.

The other answered easily: "That's right."

The first man gave an envious sigh and asked: "Is it hard work?"

"Not after you get it," was the reply.

Har Possessions.

"I have two lovely little puppies," said Mrs. Tackley.

"I have met your husband," replied the man. "Who is the other one?"
